New Farm Clinic opens new facilities

New Farm Clinic is owned and operated by Ramsay Health Care, Australia's largest and most respected operator of private hospitals.

The Clinic provides quality mental health care in an open and recuperative environment and is located in the quite leafy suburb of New Farm, which is in close proximity to Brisbane and easily accessible by public transport.

Over the past 18 months, the Clinic has undergone a multi-million dollar redevelopment increasing bed capacity to 128 beds (all private rooms), making it one of the largest private mental health care Clinics in Brisbane. The new development includes an additional 56 private patient rooms, consulting suites, gymnasium and 5 purpose built group therapy rooms.

"South East Queensland is experiencing a growth in demand for mental health services. The Clinic cares for 7,500 patients each year and is one of only a few private mental health facilities servicing the region. This redevelopment will ensure that patients have access to state-of-the-art facilities and services" Ken Craig, Chief Executive Officer said.

Staffed by specialist multidisciplinary teams, the Clinic offers a greater range of treatment options for adult mental health patients needing acute care, with a strong academic and research-based focus.

"The redevelopment provides employment opportunities for mental health professionals looking to join the Clinic team and I am pleased that we are receiving enquiries from Psychiatrists, Nursing and Allied Health staff. We currently have over 60 credentialed Psychiatrists with admitting privileges to the clinic and we are proud of the quality mental health service we continue to provide", Mr Craig Said.

On the 30 November 2016, the redevelopment will be officially opened. The opening will be attended by Chris Rex, Managing Director, Ramsay Health Care, Danny Sims, Chief Executive Officer, Ramsay Australia and Kate Munnings, Chief Operating Officer, Ramsay Australia and Councillor Vicki Howard.
